Empathy Map Canvas:

An empathy map is a simple and effective visual tool used to understand the needs, behaviors, challenges, and expectations of users involved in the ServiceNow User–Group–Role Management System.

It helps the project team better understand administrators, project managers, and team members who interact with the system.

Creating an effective access management solution requires understanding the real problems faced by users, such as managing permissions, controlling access, reducing manual effort, and maintaining security and governance. The empathy mapping exercise helps the team view the system from the users' perspective, identify their goals and pain points, and design a more secure, efficient, and user-friendly solution using ServiceNow.
